Application Processing Fee (APF) Waiver Guidelines

The University of Sydney is committed to best practice in its relationships with its students and agents. The following notes are intended to streamline and clarify the use of Application Processing Fee waiver in the application process.

- Unless specifically authorised by the Director of the International Student Office, only university of Sydney Staff members have permission to waive an APF.
- The staff member must meet the applicant face-to-face while checking the application to be able to grant the APF.
- An APF waiver cannot be given on a completed application form alone
- Transcripts must be attached and must be complete or near complete
- An English language test result is desirable, but not required
- If it is clear that the academic results on the attached transcripts do not meet the entry requirements for any of the courses applied for, the APF will not be waived.

Application Processing Fee (APF)

INSTRUCTIONS TO COMPLETE AND SUBMIT THE APPLICATION PROCESSING FEE (APF) SECTION.

The Application Processing Fee (APF) section of the application form must be submitted to the University of Sydney in hard copy by mail. Australian financial security regulations prevent the University from accepting credit card details in an electronic format. If you wish to submit your completed application form electronically (either by fax or email), you MUST detach this page from the rest of the form and mail the completed page to the International Office at the address below. You must submit the original form eg. we cannot accept a photocopy of the form.

If you are submitting your APF payment via bank cheque or money order, please attach it to this page and mail it directly to the University at the address below.

If you have any queries about completing and submitting this section of the application form, please contact us at io.applications@sydney.edu.au.

The University of Sydney is subject to the New South Wales Privacy and Personal Information Protection Act 1998 (the Act). The personal information you provide for this application will be protected in accordance with the University Privacy Policy. The information provided in the first instance will only be used by the University for assessing your application for a place in the program for which you have applied. If unsuccessful, the information will be retained in the records of the University of Sydney only for the University of Sydney's use for a period of 12 months and will not be disclosed except with your permission, in accordance with the University Privacy Policy. Under the Freedom of Information Act and the University Privacy Policy you have a right to access and correct any personal information concerning you held by the University in the student and financial databases. Routine corrections, changes and enquiries should, in the first instance, be directed to the International Office. By signing this application it is understood that you have read this statement and agree to the use and disclosure of your personal information as outlined above. Students with disabilities: If you have a disability, illness or other health-related condition which requires special support services, you could be eligible for services offered by the University of Sydney for students with a disability. You have to apply for assistance and it is important to do this as soon as you can, preferably before you accept the offer or commence study. A Disability Services Officer can guide you through this process.

To do this, please refer to the Disability Services website at sydney.edu.au/disability as Disability Services is the principal point of contact and support for students with disabilities. Even if you think you may not need the support, you should still contact Disability Services to understand if you are eligible to receive all the services offered. This will assist you in deciding whether you should accept this offer.

Quotas: There is a limited number of student places available for entry to certain degrees at the University of Sydney (a "quota"). It is possible that not all students who meet the published entry requirements for these degrees will receive an offer. Once a quota has been filled any subsequent applications received will be assessed for the next available semester. A quota may be reached before the application deadline, so it is advisable to submit your application as early as possible.

Applications should be lodged:

For first semester (February/March) by 31 October.
For Second Semester (July) by 30 April.

Late or incomplete applications may be considered however, the University of Sydney cannot guarantee that late applications will be processed in time for the proposed start date. Quotas apply to some courses. Late applications for courses which are subject to quotas may not be considered.

University Representatives (agents): You may lodge your application through any of the University of Sydney's representatives (agents). For the full contact details of all our international representative offices in over 50 countries, please visit sydney.edu.au/internationaloffice
